

What is proper dining attire?

Most cruise ships have one or two formal nights per cruise, when men are encouraged to wear tuxedos or nice suits, and women cocktail dresses or evening gowns. Other nights are casual or semi-formal, when men can get by with khakis/dress pants, collared shirt and sports jacket (semi-formal), and women skirts, dresses, or pantsuits.

Lunch and breakfast are casual, and if you don't relish the idea of formal night, alternative dining options are always available.
